

BENCHREST

Benchrest is a precision rifle shooting discipline where shooters aim to put five or 10 shots into the smallest possible group on paper targets placed at 50m, 100, 200 and 300 yards. Groups are measured from the center to the center of the two widest shots in a group. Rifles are fired from rests, comprising a front rest to support the fore-end and a rear sandbag to support the rifle's butt. Benchrest includes 10 main classes within this discipline, with the differences largely determined by rifle weight and caliber.
